Change of Teachers in our Free Schools

Change of teachers has a two fold view, as relates to our schools We are not to look at the subject in its relations to the private pecuniary interests of the teachers or their friends, except as they have an individual interest in the common welfare No class, sect, society or Church has a right of monopoly or of dictation in our public schools, and no monopoly can be justly held in the list of teachers employed. Neither one, two or three societies can justly combine influence in this matter and exclude a fourth, fifth or sixth class. In the choice of a committee, the public seek intelligent and faithful men to represent them In like manner, the committee, in the choice of teachers and their continuance in the schools, are expected to have reference to their fitness for their work, not to their family relations nor social standing It is true in the case of equal fitness, some preference ought to be given to the most needy, because of that need, and be cause such persons by the stimulus of necessity, may be expected to improve most rapidly, and thus the school will, in the end, be gainer

Among the reasons for changing teachers we may mention their indolence or unfaithfulness in obvious duties; or immorality, or ignorance and unwillingness to improve themselves For if a teacher is ignorant on some points, and yet if he has a desire to improve, and if he make the effort, he or she can become intelligent on any subject required to be taught in our schools Defective control of the school may be remedied by the support of the committee, who are required by law to assist and sustain a teacher's authority

When one of the first four reasons exists and there is not a disposition to improve, the teacher should be removed from the school and so reported, at least to the Superintendent, so as not to be liable to be transferred to another school. Such a person is unfit to be a teacher anywhere His or her place should be supplied by a new candidate for the profession, and he should not be allowed to displace some other one, but should be dropped from the list of professional teachers

It is obviously proper to transfer teachers from one department, or school to another, because of their superior fitness for the position, but this has many abating circumstances, which should render it infrequent rather than a habit and a purpose The path of improvement of schools does not lie so much in the transferring or advancing teachers to new places, as in greater efforts to improve the schools or departments in their charge. The teacher of a primary school can become eminently fitted and skilled for that department, and thus do far more for the cause of thorough instruction in that office, than by any change, although the same teacher might fit himself for any other department. A faithful primary teacher deserves, and he or she will receive as much consideration as a sub-principal or even principal High position is not so much to be desired as faithfulness in one's position; whatever it may be. We cannot advocate frequent changes from what are called lower to higher departments. The fact is, one department is as high as any other in its importance, and bearing on the future. If an apprentice be poorly taught he will make a bad journeyman. If a boy or girl in the primary school be imperfectly taught, he will always be unfitted for the grammar and higher schools. Learning is like a chain of causes and effects, and every link must be without flaw and strongly welded. If good teachers lack physical strength for their department, they may, if possible, be provided with less laborious positions; yet even in this, the public weal ought not to be sacrificed to individual misfortune.

On the other hand, change of teachers involves a loss in the following respects: First, the pupils suffer directly. For their progress in study it is very important if not essential that teachers know their present state of advancement, also something of their ability, tastes, habits, defects, need of assistance, of encouragement, of rebuke, or of incitement. He ought to know something of their habits out of school He ought to know them well individually. But he cannot be expected to do all this in less than half a term or perhaps a whole term By change of teachers you deprive the pupil of the time lost by the new teacher in learning what he has to do for each pupil Let those changes occur every three or six months and you will discover very little advancement on the part of your scholars. Let any one visit our public schools two or three times and take notes, at the intervals of six months or a year and he will discover a want of progress, and it will seem obvious to him that the frequent change of teachers is one of the reasons of the failure. New teachers always put their pupils back.

But let the same teacher, if faithful, remain with the same scholars and he will be able to adapt his teaching to their known degree of advancement and thus take them forward step by step

It is an injury to parents, secondly, to change the instructors of their children.

They wish to know and have confidence in a teacher, which they cannot do if he comes only for three or six months A change is a

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 10, 1866.

A New Cloak for the Old Impostors.

It is ludicrous to see the party which for thirty years championed slavery and advocated the principle that the condition of servitude was the natural state of the negro race, now acquiescing in the doctrine set forth in the call for the Philadelphia Convention, declaring that "slavery is abolished and neither can nor ought to be restored." To those who have labored for years for the eradication of this evil, it is a source of grim satisfaction to see the people of the Southern States responding to this sentiment, even though it is perfectly well known that there is no sincerity in their professions regarding it. It is amusing enough to find men who have always proclaimed the perfect sovereignty of the States and who, their lives long, have sworn by the resolutions of '98, now assenting to the doctrine that the "Constitution of the United States and the laws of Congress passed in pursuance thereof are supreme, constant, and universal in their obligation." With the remembrance of the late conduct of the South before us, it is especially ludicrous to see delegates now going up from the South Carolina, Mississippi and Texas to Philadelphia, in response to a call which declares that "there is no right anywhere to dissolve the Union or to separate States from the Union either by voluntary withdrawal or by force of arms." It is truly a rare spectacle, and one well calculated to excite derision to find the party at the North which for several years has studiously repudiated the word "loyalty," now seizing hold of it with avidity, appropriating it to itself in a spirit of profound reverence for the patriotic idea it embodies, and with the zeal of new converts, denouncing as infidels those who uphold loyalty when this new enthusiastic party scouted the word and the idea together. Strange mutations occur in the mutable world of politics; but who at any time within these last five years would have ventured the prediction that the time would come when secessionists and their abettors—men who declared that "secession was the only remedy to save the rights of the States—would publicly and formally acknowledge that the preservation of the rights, dignity and equality of the States was the sole object for which so much blood and treasure were expended in the late civil war? Who could have foretold that rebels and Democrats together would declare in 1866 that the Lincoln platforms of 1860 and 1864 would form a satisfactory basis for the next Democratic platform?

The endorsement of these principles by "the rebels and their Democratic abettors," as Secretary Seward calls them, would, if it were real, be the most extraordinary series of concessions ever made by a political party. It is a complete renunciation of the "time-honored principles of the Democracy." It destroys the Democratic organization as such, and yields to its opponents everything they have ever claimed. This surrender of principles is too complete to allow us to believe that it is done in good faith. When our enemy offers us gifts it is time to be on our guard. No party would voluntarily, and yet in honest sincerity, make concessions like these. There is a claw concealed in this smooth-seeming paw. The gifts of the Greeks were not more dangerous and deadly than those which are now offered to the country by the men who but lately were conspiring its destruction.

Who, with the record of these men before him—their conduct in advocating the ideas that led to the rebellion, their denial of the right of the Republic to exist in the days of the civil war, their repudiation and denial through long years of the equality of human rights, their attempt to overthrow the Government and maintain a despotism—who with this, their record before him believes that they have been in so short a time entirely converted from their old ideas and are now willing to carry out in good faith the principles to which they profess so late an obedience? The days of miraculous conversions are long since passed, and we should hesitate long to believe that the persecutors of loyalty on their way up to Philadelphia have been suddenly smitten by a great light like that which surrounded Saul on his way to Damascus.

A vast majority of those who make these fine promises have no intention of abiding by their word. Have not the people seen enough of their treachery already not to be deceived by them again, and this time more fearfully than ever before?

It is declared that President Johnson is to be read out of the Union party, by papers that did not hoist a Union ticket during the war. Ah, indeed!—Exchange.

Some of those papers which now have the most to say and the greatest anxiety to express about immediate reconstruction of the Union, are those which hoisted the rebel flag during the war.

STATE ITEMS.

Mr Woods, Governor elect, returned on the Montana yesterday, as far as Astoria, where he will remain a few days.

Prof. Woods is at the mouth of the Columbia, "living around after something new in the floral world." We learn that he has "collected quite a number of plants not found elsewhere on this coast."

A well known citizen of Linn was boasting to us yesterday that "Linn county has, this year, bigger wheat, taller oats, heavier grass, fatter cattle, bigger everything and more of it, this year, than ever before," and he believed, than any county in the State.

On Tuesday, we copied from the Albany Journal, a report of the drowning of a Miss Boggs at Harrisburg. The reported drowning was correct, but the name was Boggs. She was a daughter of J. L. Boggs, and about 12 years of age. She lost her life in the attempt to rescue her little brother from deep water, into which he had inadvertently waded while trying to reach a wash-tub floating in a narrow slough. The boy, clinging to some overhanging bushes, got out and gave the alarm, but before assistance could reach her, the heroic girl had been three quarters of an hour in the water, and, of course, when taken out, life was extinct.

M. H. Abbott, the man with a record, and all the way from Pike county, Illinois, announces that he is in Albany, and is "putting things to rights" in the office of the Conservative Democrat. Probably in getting the poor, broken down thing to running again. Well, well! we suppose we shall be compelled once more to hunt up our old files of the Pike County Democrat, the resurrection of which drove him in a twilight from the tripod of the Herald last spring, and sent him in dismay from Portland. We guess we'll turn over the evidences of his "record" to our friend McPherson of the Journal, and let him scour up the wanderer away from Albany with them. Were Mr. H. Abbott to live a thousand years, that record would drive him up and down the world like another Wandering Jew, with no rest in the present and no hope for the future.

Last Tuesday, P. D. Palmer, of Salem, was arraigned before a justice of the peace on a charge of attempting to break into a house to commit a rape. The complaining witness was a Mrs. Roundtree, a widow woman. From the circumstances detailed before the examining court, it appears that Palmer went to the house and made dishonorable proposals to the woman, whereupon she barred the door and refused him admittance. Palmer then went to the back door which he attempted to force open. Mrs. R. resisted and struck him over the head two or three times with a stick of stove-wood. In the melee Palmer drew a pistol. This occurred on Thursday night. The woman lodged a complaint next day, but in the absence of the Prosecuting Attorney, the hearing did not take place till Tuesday, when Palmer was held in the sum of $1000 to answer in the circuit court.

The Bulletin's Portland correspondent not long since traveled a short distance up the Willamette, by steamer. On board the same steamer were a number of discharged Oregon volunteers. The correspondent says: "In appearance, they were a brawny, wholesome set of fellows—country boys—whom the camp could not make forget that they were Oregonians, and had something to live for besides pipe clay and pay-day. While at Vancouver they come in contact with some of the regulars of the 14th Infantry, and taught them to respect Oregon muscle in the future. They were enlisted for three years, but had not served quite two. Why they were discharged is one of the mysteries of the War Office, when they are so much needed in the upper country, and where one of them, for Indian service, is worth a half a score of raw regulars from the East."

A correspondent at Buena Vista, Polk county, writes us that the Copperheads of that precinct assembled in convention, elected six delegates to the Democratic County Convention; that the six, then and there, gave their proxies to a Copperhead, who acknowledges to having served two years as a volunteer in Price's army of guerrillas. He has no hesitation in confessing to his service in behalf of the rebellion, and says that under the same circumstances he would do it again. He thinks the principles involved in the rebellion were and are correct. He took up the musket in good faith and does not now think he committed any wrong. After two years' service, he was taken prisoner, was released on parole and came to Oregon. This man who fought two years to destroy the Union and now glories in his treason, becomes, by the voluntary act of the Democracy of a precinct of Polk county, their sole and honored representative in a County Convention to select a candidate for the stay-at-home traitors to vote for. Of such is democracy.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO AUGUST 8.

Johnson Convention at Boston.

BOSTON, August 8—The Johnson Convention in Faneuil Hall to-day, was numerously attended. Everett Saltonstall presided and among the Vice Presidents were Benjamin R. Curtis, Geo. Ashman, Frank Haven Gen Couch, C L. Woodbury and Geo. Hillard.

Monetary and Commercial—Distinguished Arrival.

NEW YORK, August 8—The Post's money article says gold is strong and has advanced under a decline in 5 20s at London. The money market is extremely easy, and the stock market has advanced Cotton dull and easier at 35@37. Flour, more active without decided change. The Queen of the Sandwich Islands arrived here to-day, in steamer Java.

Foreign News.

NEW YORK, August 8—The steamer Java brings dates to July 29—There was a further disturbance in London. The meeting in Hyde Park for July 30th was called, it is alleged by the consent of the Government, but the ministers declare no such consent was given, and warned the reform league against holding the meeting. Government assented to its being held at Primrose Hill, declaring the Royal Parks should not be used until the question of right was settled.

The truce in Germany expired on the 27th of July, but was prolonged to Aug. 2d, and a four weeks armistice, commencing at the latter date, was concluded. It is announced that peace preliminaries had been signed and reached Vienna for ratification by the Emperor of Austria. The minor German States were not included in the armistice, and hostilities between them and Prussia continued. The Bavarians were defeated by the Prussians near Wirzeburg. The suppression of hostilities between Austria and Italy commenced July 29th.

The Evening Post says the news by the Java throws considerable light on the allyeline utterances of the Atlantic Cable. It will be seen that although Prussia concluded an armistice with Austria, hostilities with the minor German States were not suspended. Consequently the Prussians advanced into Bavaria and fought a battle at Wirzeburg, in which the Bavarians were defeated. Here the cable comes again to our relief. It announces that simultaneously with the occupation of Wirzeburg the Bavarians have been permitted to enter the Prussian city of Munich, one of the most important of old federal fortresses. It lies on the bank of the Rhine, undoubtedly in that part of the province which is to form a part of the German Confederation. It is at the northeastern extremity of the new Confederation. As it lies directly between the Prussian forces in Bavaria and the Rhine provinces, its occupation is conclusive proof that the war is over; that stupid Bavaria has consented to the terms, and that Prussia is henceforth omnipotent in South as well as in North Germany. The gravitation of the independent Southern Catholic States into the Northern Protestant power, is only a question of time.

The London Times says: With Wirtemberg and portions of Baden in his hands, the King of Prussia can afford calmly to await any overture France may have to make. For the present, Louis Napoleon is well disposed, but let him relapse into the very different mood evinced a fortnight ago, and the chance of all Germany rushing to arms to resist the aggression of one whose good offices have ever had to be restrained by territory, will be greater than ever. Even when the Prussian armies had penetrated but a very few miles south of the main line of division between the north and south, a change tone of public opinion was perceptible in Bavaria, Wirtemburg and Baden. The most sensible begin to understand that Prussia, being backed by the good will of the whole northern people was so unquestionably stronger than the south that resistance was useless.

The Constitutionel Advertiser says the territory South of the Main consists chiefly of Baden and Bavaria, containing a population of about eight millions who are German in feeling people, and if left to their own opinion, would, undoubtedly go with the majority of their countrymen under Prussia. Perhaps Count Bismarck fancies this and shapes his policy accordingly. Whatever may be the result of the diplomatic negotiations, it is abundantly evident that the Hapsburgs will never more represent the great German and holy Roman Empire. The result of the war clearly shows that Prussia, not Austria, represents the Germanic element. The Austrian monarchy, so far as Germany was concerned, turns out to be a mere sham. It has no real weight or influence, and the rapidity of its fall is only surprising to those who ignored or overlooked the past. That were silently at work undermining the respectable European constitution of which Austria was the representative and champion. She succumbed before other influences than the Prussian needle gun.

The Paris Patrie says: The French squadron at Toulon has been ordered to get ready for sea immediately. Destination unknown. A rumor is current that if Frankfort does not pay the forced contribution of 250,000,000 florins, the town will be sacked and no one allowed to enter or depart.

The Paris Bourse closed on the 28th of July firm at 68f 25c.

LONDON, August 6—The King of Prussia has returned to Berlin. The municipality extended to him a congratulatory address. In reply he said the Kingdom was indebted to no such consent was given, and warned the reform league against holding the meeting. AN IMPROVED MACHINE, BUT NOT EXPLOSIVE.—The Alta of August 24 has the following: "By the last steamer from Portland, Oregon, came through Wells, Fargo & Co's Express a small square box, mysteriously heavy and solid. It was addressed to Chief Parker, but accompanied by no letter or bill. The box was taken to the Police office and the question of its probable contents anxiously discussed. It was suggested by one party that it probably contained nitro-glycerine, another was confident that it contained gold coin or dust, which the thief, prompted by the goadings of conscience, desired to return through the Police Department to the owner, another thought it might be counterfeit money, but the majority were inclined to believe that it contained an infernal machine; white smith or was at last sified that he had no idea what was in it, any how—it might be nails or possibly quartz specimens, or something to eat. It was finally decided that brass must never shrunk from death in the discharge of duty and the order was given to open the box, let the consequences be what they might At 9 17½ A. M precisely, the horses were removed from in front of the City Hall, by the police officer Bliss, the hackmen were requested to be on their boxes, ready to start out on the instant, and the windows of the office were thrown open in order to allow a free escape of the smoke and splinters and things Officer Clark then took a glass of water without displaying any perceptible tremor in his hand, and remarking that it was time the matter was settled, coolly proceeded to pry off the lid of the box The box like the book of the dead wizard made famous by Sir Walter Scott, was but it yielded at length to persuasion and a cold chisel, and revealed to the curious eyes of the lookers on a patent shackle and boot for securing prisoners, in the place of the old and clumsy ball and chain arrangement The heavy shackle, weighing some twelve or twelve pounds, rests upon a ring setting loosely around the ankle, and supported by iron straps, running down to the sole of the brogan which is to be placed on the prisoner's foot. The arrangement is pronounced a great improvement by experienced judges, and from what we can think it is, more comfortable for the wearer than the old kind—in fact, quite a luxury, a sort of "prisoner's friend and companion," so to speak. The affair was patented by J C Gardiner, of Portland who is prepared to furnish parties desiring sets of that kind of jewelry "

"With iron clasped and with iron bound,"

HARVESTING.—Farming has always been considered very tedious work, but at the same time one of the most honorable pursuits of man, and now that the inventor is producing machinery by which it can be made less laborious, the agriculturist has nothing to do but to accept of these improved methods to render his life a luxury The latest invention that has come under our knowledge is that of a self raking machine, which we saw in operation yesterday, in this city Attached to a Kirby reaper the simple little thing, which consists of a revolving table, about fifteen inches in diameter, three wooden fingers and a rake of uniform length, say three feet, all under the control of the driver by pulling his lines, upon an iron strap, raked into bundles all the grain that the machine cut, as it moved along. This model was sent to Captain Upton, agent for this State for the sale of the Kirby, and other agricultural implements, from California, being the only one on the coast, for the purpose of giving it a trial for the benefit of people here who are interested in such inventions. The trial in California elicited great attention, and that the model may be on exhibition at the Fair at Sacramento next month, he will return it to San Francisco next season, hoping to get it back for exhibition at the State Fair at Salem in October. The ground on which the trial was made yesterday is very rough and uneven, and the crop of oats being harvested was very light, which rendered the exhibition less effective, but as all could see, who saw the operation, it is a most assuredly a very desirable article, and one which every farmer ought to have The action of the Kirby reaper was as well satisfactory, as any one could desire.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.—A late number of the Stockton [illegible] descriptive account of a new flouring mill, lately put into operation in that city The editor says "We were surprised to perceive that a work of such magnitude had been planned and completed so quietly and from the finished style of execution We say this because we believe it is one of the largest enterprises of the kind in the States; and comparatively few have known that such an extensive undertaking had been going on. We have read about it with interest, and made a comparison with the excellent mill of our fellow townsman Mr. H W. Vaughn, and found that notwithstanding the Stockton mill may be one of the largest establishments of the kind in California, the mill of Mr Vaughn, at Portland Oregon, is superior to it in every respect. The mill here is larger, is of greater capacity, and is built of brick, said to possess as fine a mill as can be found in the United States.

A SHOW The usual jam of carts, drays, cabs, hacks, trucks, buggies, horses, mules, but a number of men, women, children, dogs, etc, etc, to be seen on [illegible] at an early hour in daylight, and on Couch and Flanders' wharf last evening just after twelve, to greet the [illegible] arriving from San Francisco by the Moses Taylor While the steamer was getting up to the wharf, and the attendants of the crowd was attracted that way, some of the horses attached to the vehicles grew restless of them backing into the horses of the Pacific House Omnibus, which in turn backed against the Bliss building, a heavy frame, received its concussion which will now state its "repairing" to a shop The crash came very near creating a panic among the crowd

A MISS THAT TELLS.—Among the [illegible] from San Francisco by the steamer Wilson G. Hunt last evening was [illegible] who is connected with a [illegible] winning company in the Boise Basin His company has got the mill, two stamps—which they are at present erecting, from Chicago, Ill.—overland, but they are now about to ship Alta's machinery from the East, via the Isthmus and Portland The ten stamps are kept busy on rock that pays well, and affords the Proprietors a supply of $1,000 per week to be remitted to the holders of the stock.

[illegible] of Oregon The "Willamette & Portage Railway," chartered by the Legislative Assembly at Salem, [illegible] two years since, for the purpose of building a railroad across the portage at the Falls, met at that place [illegible] day and elected the following directors: Gen. O. Allenworth, R. R. Thompson, and W. S. Ladd. Then, Wright was [illegible] Secretary by the directors. As no business was transacted, and it was decided to press the work of completing the railroad with all [illegible] vigor.

[illegible]—In conversation yesterday a gentleman from Oregon, who is rather extensively engaged in merchandising and is one of the parties who formerly "patronized" the Chico route, remarked that the community there now felt differently in regard to the matter, and as for [illegible] his only salvation was to pay his freight bills and send down the route in Salem. He will make no purchases in this market and ship by the Columbia river, and in future send all that he may obtain in the markets of San Francisco this way.

NEW BAKERY.—It is rumored in this city that a most [illegible] of quartz has been made recently in the vicinity of Oro Fino, Idaho The discoverers are known, but their movements have been kept secret among themselves, for the purpose of letting [illegible] and friends have the [illegible] in locating claims. We trust that the reports are true, and that the parties interested may realize their most sanguine hopes.

FARE OVERLAND.—The rates of fare overland, by the Oregon Stage Company, are as follows From Portland to Salem, $5, to Albany $8, to Corvallis $10; to Eugene City $12. These rates are about 25 per cent. less than when the business was conducted by the California Company The fare from Portland to San Francisco is about 18 per cent. less than last year.

IN POST.—The steamships Orizimba and Montana arrived yesterday from San Francisco. The entire passage was made with strong north and north-west winds, and both vessels were delayed off the bar a few hours in a fog. The lists of passengers, consignees, etc., appear elsewhere in this paper.

SHOW UP.—Marshal Hoyt received two new boarders at the "Hotel de cross bar," yesterday Patrick Shean and John Bright—not the celebrated English reformers—were each sent up for five days, in default of fine for drunkenness.

AN OLD PAPER.—Mr J. L. Atkinson, of the firm of Parish & Atkinson, has a very interesting copy of the Newburyport Herald, Massachusetts, printed in the year 1821, which he proposes donating to the Portland Library Association.

MEDICAL.—The card of Dr Chas. Black, late of the firm of Hoffman & Black appears in our columns to day The Doctor is one of our most genial citizens, and we are pleased to know has determined not to leave us.

GENTS' CLOTHING.—Messrs. Kuhn & Nichol ask that gentlemen call upon them and inspect a new lot of clothing, which they opened yesterday upon the arrival of the steamship Orizimba

FARM FOR SALE.—Mr A. R. Richardson will dispose of the farm of Mr Hall, as advertised in another column, to-day The sale will take place on the premises

THANKS.—As usual, we are under obligations to McCormick, of the Franklin Book Store, for a large supply of the latest Eastern and California papers, received by steamer yesterday.

FOR MOUNT HOOD.—We understand Prof. Wood, Rev. Mr Atkinson, and other gentlemen of this city, propose making an excursion to Mount Hood next week

The Circuit Court has been engaged for the last few days in trying the case involving the title to the property situated below this town, known as the Warm Springs property. The case is not yet finished.

Mrs Sue Gentzler is about to conclude a successful engagement at Idaho City.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 8.—The Eastern line is out of order No Eastern news

About 2 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the carpenter shop and stable on Mission between Third and Fourth streets destroying the building and injuring the dwelling of Cutler adjoining The carpenter shop was occupied by H Finnegan undertaker on market street, whose loss is stated to be about $2,000 A new and elegant hearse valued at $5,000 was destroyed by the fire which was supposed to have been the work of an incendiary

Judge Dwinelle to-day released Mrs. Dewolf from confinement in the case to [illegible] a writ of habeas corpus He decided that the [illegible] Municipal [illegible] to pass ordinances proscribing any particular kind of dress, nor had the Legislature any constitutional right to confer powers on the board which it did not possess itself

John Mol y and Thomas Mayhew, [illegible] the former aged 29 years and the latter 35, have been committed to Stockton as insane. Moloy is insane on the subject of getting married and in his craziness delights in parading around in his undergarments Both men are natives of Ireland.

The Bloomfield Gravel Mining Co filed its certificate of incorporation to day The company is formed for the purpose of mining in the vicinity of Humboldt Creek or Canyon in Nevada county capital stock, $400,000.

The case of Charles and Gustavus Bertoung, proprietors of the Dramatic Chronicle, charged with publishing of a libel on Thos. Maguire Theatrical Manager, is under investigation by the police commissioners this afternoon The defendants are charged with publishing an article in their paper which is alleged to refer to Mr Maguire as the incendiary who set fire to the United States Court building for the purpose of destroying the Metropolitan Theatre. The defendants demurred to the complaint on the ground that the article was not libelous on its face and did not point directly to Mr Maguire The demurrer was overruled and the trial proceeds Maguire testified to his connection with theatrical matters in the State for many years and from certain circumstances, as set forth in the article referred to, he felt he was the article referred to him and was so intended by its publishers He stated that he was sick in bed at the time the fire occurred, and that the Metropolitan Theatre and Maguire's Opera House had died and were supported in part by the same wall, so that a fire which would destroy one must necessarily destroy the other He stated that a brother of defendants, representing himself as their agent, threatened to get even with him because he refused to advertise in their paper

The Pope's own sister recently died at Rome in great poverty and misery. She was anti-Catholic and the Pope wouldn't do much for her.

It is stated that Prof. Agazzi and his wife will sail from Rio de Janeiro for home on the July steamer.

Several ex-Confederate officers have arrived in Galveston from Mexico. They report the country to be too dangerous to live in, robberies and murders being daily occurrences.

The Legislature of Tennessee have named the section of country around where Davy Crockett once lived, Crockett county, in honor of that renowned rattler and hunter.

A man in Halifax, Va., has discovered a mine of the famous "mad stones," of which not more than twenty were known to be in existence. They are said to possess the power to extract the poison of serpents and mad dogs from wounds, and perform other miraculous offices.

George W. Childs, Esq., has presented to the Commissioner of city property of Philadelphia the life-boat used by Dr. Kane in his escape from the perils of the Arctic seas. The boat is to be hung between two trees, in Fairmount Park, near the Log-Cabin, and a light shed will be placed over it to protect it from the weather.

On the evening of July 5th, a boiler on the plantation of W. C. Watkins, of Austin, Miss., exploded, demolishing the gin house, cotton press, etc., entirely, greatly shattering the residence 100 yards off, killing two men instantly, and severely wounding several others. Four of the wounded men were placed in a boat yesterday morning, to be brought to Memphis. Three of the number died on the way.

There are 162 streets, 42 alleys, and 64 courts in Pittsburgh, and 113 streets and 41 alleys in Allegheny. In the two cities and surrounding boroughs there are 131 churches—as follows: Presbyterian, 36; Methodist Episcopal, 29; Catholic, 17; Episcopal, 10; Lutheran, 9; Methodist Protestant, 7; not classified, 12. These are the figures of Thurston, general utility man to the city at large.

A despatch dated Cairo, Illinois, July 12th, says: "An interesting relic of the late rebellion passed through here this morning, being no less than the gun used on Morris Island against the U. S. steamer Star of the West, at the entrance of Charleston harbor, on the 9th of January, 1861. It is a six-pounder, smooth-bore cannon, mounted on a carriage, and is historical as having fired the first shot in the rebellion. Four soldiers, belonging to the 15th United States Regulars, have charge of the piece, which is en route for Washington, to be added to the many rebel relics already collected there.

A meeting of the members of the two clubs, the National Union and National Johnson Club, took place July 9th, and a resolution was unanimously adopted to consolidate them. A new organization was formed, to consist of the two executive committees, now resolved into one, under the name of the National Union Executive Committee. The members of the two committees met at the office of Montgomery Blair, on Thursday evening. This consolidation is believed to be exceedingly distasteful to Seward, Raymond & Co.—so much so in fact as to make Raymond's longer co-operation with the National Union movement decidedly problematical.

Says the Louisville Journal: "Some of the reaction papers of the South are making themselves foolish. To show their sympathies with the old tory party of Great Britain, and their hatred of everything like progress as smacking of the Yankee, they spell logic and all similar words with a k—thus, logick, publick, mathematicks, athicks—and they also write rumour, honour, neighbour; and, in fact, endeavor to stick as many obsolete letters into their words as possible. They think they see thereby spitting the Yankees! Ludicrous, isn't it? In an article upon the manufacturing interests of St. Louis, the Democrat makes a comparison in the trade in tobacco between the years 1860 and 1865, from which the following result appears: In 1860 there were twelve manufacturing establishments in St. Louis, with a capital of $100,000; in 1865 there were sixty-two establishments, employing two millions and a half in excess of the capital invested in the entire State in 1860. The Government tax alone on tobacco manufactured in St. Louis in 1865 was $1,171,251, the tobacco being valued at about $300,000, an increase of eighty per cent. over the total product of the State in 1860, and one thousand per cent. on the product of St. Louis in the same year.

Literary Items.

Alexander Smith, whose Life Drama excited a sort of furore on its publication in 1853, and who now is only 35 years old is writing prize tales and sketches for two English periodicals, Good Words and The Quiver. Since 1854, Mr. Smith has held the Secretaryship of the University of Edinburg, an office for life, with $1,500 per annum.

A catalogue of some 3,000 Arabic MSS. contained in the library of Edenburgh, near Mount Ararat, the seat of the patriarch, has just been printed. Amongst the MSS. are some unpublished works of the Fathers, and also some unpublished fragments of Aristotle, and Diodorus Flavius. Copyists are employed in the library, and these treasures, hitherto inaccessible, are now thrown open to scholars.

At Brixen, in the Tyrol, there has just appeared a somewhat important book, if we are to utilise properly the recent discoveries of Speke, Grant and Baker in the Nile countries. The Roman Catholic missionaries at Chartum have done much to make the languages of Central Africa known to us, and now Herr Mitterrutzner, a member of that mission, gives us a grammar of the Dinka language, spoken in the districts of the Upper Nile (the Bar-el-Abiad, or White Nile,) from 9° to 12° on the eastern bank of the river, and from 5°-10° on the western, in all embracing a country of from 300 to 400 miles in extent. To the grammar is appended a Dinka, German and Italian Dictionary.

Royal authors multiply. Louis Napoleon is an incorrigible scribbler. Ornot Paolia is reported, in song of the French journals, as being engaged in writing a life of Alexander the Great. The Crown Prince of Prussia has in hand a history of the Electoral Princes of Brandenburg. The ex-King of Greece (Otho of Bavaria) is translating the Iliad of Homer, and his father, Louis, ex-King of Bavaria, is at Nice giving the last touches to a new volume of poems. Lastly, King Johu, of the late Kingdom of Saxony, has just published the third and last volume of Dantess Divina Commedia, translated by himself into German.

The works on which various American writers are now engaged is thus noted: Bancroft is at work on his 9th volume; Prof. Geo. W. Greene, of Rhode Island, is writing the biography of his grandfather, Gen. Nat. Greene, of the revolutionary army; E. G. Squier is preparing a work on the antiquities of Central and South America; Pierre Irving is collecting the scraps and sobreds of his uncle, Washington Irving's writings, heretofore never put in book form, and will probably make two or three volumes of them; Richard Frothingham of Charlestown is writing his elaborate history of that town, William Swinton, first historian of the Army of the Potomac, is next to prepare a volume on The Twelve Principal Battles of the War.

Political Items.

Gen. G. W. Morgan has been nominated for Congress by the Democratic Convention of the Thirteenth District of Ohio, on the eighty-seventh ballot.

Hon. Charles B. Drake, of St. Louis, estimates that at the next Missouri election the total conservative vote will not exceed 40,000, while the radical vote will amount to 65,000.

The Leavenworth Bulletin places at the head of its editorial columns the following ticket: "For President in 1868—Ulysses S. Grant. For Vice-President—A man we can trust."

A private dispatch has been received at Jackson, announcing that Duff Green has been confirmed by the United States Senate as Marshal for the Southern District of Mississippi.

The Nashville Press and Times, alluding to the vaunt of Robert Toombs at Havana, that he had trampled upon eighteen Union flags at one time, thinks, that "though Toombs himself has passed away from among us, the Toombs tone still remains."

There is great enthusiasm among the Union men of Kentucky over the nomination of Gen. Hobson for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. The conservatives and radicals have united on the General, and will likely elect him over the rebel candidate.

The best thing said pertinent to the difference between the President and the people comes from a citizen of a reconstructed State: "We are all Johnson men," said Mr. J. M. Botts, in his Baltimore speech; "the only difference is, one goes for what Johnson says, and the other for what he does."

George H. Pendleton is announced as the Democratic candidate for Congress in the First District of Ohio. Gen. Schenck has been re nominated in the Third, and Samuel Shellabarger in the Seventh (Columbus) District. Gen. Ashley has announced his purpose to run again in the Tenth District.

Southern Union Convention—Call to Meet in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, September 3, 1866.

The call for a Convention of Southern Unionists, to be held at Independence Hall, in the city of Philadelphia, on the first Monday of September, 1866, is as follows:

WASHINGTON, July 17th.

To the Loyal Unionists of the South: The great issue is upon us. The majority in Congress and its supporters frankly declare that the rights of the citizens, enumerated in the Constitution and established by the supreme law, must be maintained inviolate. Rebels and rebel sympathizers assert the rights of the citizens must be left to the States alone, and under such regulations as the respective States choose voluntarily to prescribe. We have seen this doctrine of State sovereignty carried out in its practical results, until authority in Congress was denied, and the Union temporarily destroyed, the constitutional rights of the South nearly annihilated and the land desolated by civil war. The time is come when the reconstruction of Southern State Governments must be laid on constitutional principles, or the despotism, grown up under an autocratic leadership, be permitted to remain. We know of no other plan than that Congress, under its constitutional powers, shall now exercise its authority to establish the principle whereby protection is made coextensive with citizenship.

We maintain that no State, either in its organic law or legislation, can transgress on the rights of the citizens. We demand, and ask you to concur in demanding protection to every citizen of the great republic on a basis equitable before the law; and further, no State Government should be recognized as legitimate under the Constitution in so far as it does not by its organic law make impartial protection full and complete. Under the doctrine of State sovereignty, with rebels in the foreground controlling Southern Legislatures, and embittered by disappointment in their schemes to destroy the Union, there will be no safety for the loyal element of the South.

Our reliance for protection is now in Congress and the great Union party that has stood and is standing by the nationality, by the constitutional rights of the citizen, and by the beneficent principles of a free government. For the purpose of bringing the loyal Unionists of the South into conjunctive action with the true friends of republican government in the North, we invite you to send delegates in goodly numbers from all the Southern States, including Missouri, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware, to meet at Independence Hall, in the city of Philadelphia, on the first Monday in September next. It is proposed that we should meet at that time to recommend measures for the establishment of such governments in the South as accords with and protects the rights of all citizens.

We trust this call will be responded to by numerous delegations of such as represent the true loyalty of the South, that kind of government which gives full protection to all rights of the citizen, such as our fathers intended and we claim as our birthright. Either the lovers of constitutional liberty must rule the nation, or rebels and their sympathizers be permitted to misrule it.

Shall loyalty or disloyalty have the keeping of the destinies of the nation? Let the responses to this call, which is now in circulation for signatures, and is being numerously signed, answer. Notice is given that gentlemen at a distance can have their names attached to it by sending a request by letter, by mail, directed to D. W. Bingham, Washington (D. C.)

OUR NATIONAL TAILOR—A PORTRAIT DRAWN IN CHALK BY A RADICAL KNIGHT OF THE SHEARS.—Show me who has been engaged in these conspiracies, who has fired upon our flag, who has given instructions to take our forts and Custom-houses, and arsenals and dockyards, and I will show you a traitor. Were I President of the United States I would do as Thomas Jefferson did in 1806 with Aaron Burr. I would have them arrested, and if convicted within the meaning and scope of the Constitution, by the Eternal God I would execute them.—[Andrew Johnson in the United States Senate, March 22, 1861.

I believe we must leave the killing out when all is done.[Robert Starveling the Tailor, Midsummer Night's Dream.

In my opinion a certain notorious representative of our craft is but a so-so journeyman; running well for a time, he is taking long back stitches. He is trying to mend our national breeches with shoddy. He is putting new pockets into our national coat-of-arms for foreign insults, and patching its grand bullet holes with Confederate gray. I suspect that he is going into the old clo' business—this same Moses. He has sponged out his old record, and is no longer a credit to our cloth. In undertaking to fit the grand mantle of the great President to his diminutive proportions he has clipped, and nipped, and "reconstructed" it into a monkey-jacket.

He'll not give the rebels the hasty basting they deserve, but is bent upon binding up their wounds. He is not the man to end J. D.'s thread of life with a slip-knot.

He has sat too long on a narrow bench to stand firm and erect on a broad platform.

In my opinion, all said A. J.'s stories of great sacrifices for the Union are "cut out of the whole cloth." He can't make me swallow tails of that sort.

He is too well used to turning his coat. He isn't "sound on the goose." He will make a cabbage garden of the White House grounds. He would extinguish liberty's torch with his thimble. His needle turns to the South Pole. I would there was another needle in the seat of Government to prick him on to duty.

I confess I don't admire his roundabout policy. I don't like his habits; they are either too loose or too tight. I don' like his measures. He don't fit the situation. There is too much seaming about him. He is a poor feller. He overcasts our fair sky with doubt, and skirts it with lightnings. He keeps the nation "in suspenders," as Mrs. Partington would say. I would set him to making corduroys. He isn't fit for par ducks—dux. He needs buckram in his principles. He wants drilling. He has less heart than pudding. He hasn't "a soul above buttons." He faces both ways. He is full of platitudes. He doesn't gather wisdom from experience. He tacks and trims. His judgment is warped. He doesn't listen to good advice. He would o'ua the Napover us, with his yard-stick for a sceptre. He wants men after his own pattern to follow the patch he makes out. He waxes savoy, but if he don't mind his eye in threading his way, he'll raise the choler of the nation, and get hemmed in and pressed on all sides. He needs to be stayed, to be slashed, to be gored, to be pinked.

If the fates should be inclined to cut him off with his own shears, I for one should say, "Cut away." If fortune were about to undo him, I should say, "Let her rip."

Mr. Seward's proposition to form a new party and to constrain the pro-slavery Democracy to take him for their leader in a new crusade against the Radicals, elicits this instructive commentary from the World:

When Secretary Seward sat down to write his rose-water letter in reply to the invitation to the Tamany Society, the thought must have suddenly struck him that he owed an atonement to the Democrats for the abuse he poured upon them in his last Auburn speech. We beg to assure him that his fulsome and Miss-Nancyish praise is appreciated at its true value. Democrats have seen too many specimens of his lacquered wares to mistake it even for gilt, much less for gold. They remember not only the last Albany speech, in which they were abused, but the one preceding the last, in which certain other parties were praised; and they regard his abuse and his praise as equally hollow. They would as soon be the one as of the other, his fulsome praise being as nauseous as his unjust abuse is offensive. Even if Democrats, were so mock-magnanimous as to have forgotten the tinkling of Mr. Seward's "little bell," the lacquered compliments he scattered right and left in his October speech are too recent to have escaped their recollection. When he bestows praise on the Democrats so soon after abusing them in his last Auburn speech, the conclusion we draw is that Mr. Seward has some object which he hopes to reach by making Democrats his stepping-stones. But if he has lost all self-respect, the Democrats have not. They feel nothing but honest scorn for a man who courts and fawns on them so soon after his vauterous abuse.—Anti-Slavery Standard.

ROBERT DALE OWEN ON THE MEXICAN QUESTION.—Hon. Robert Dale Owen has written a letter on the Mexican question. Mr. Owen is of opinion that the French Government should evacuate Mexico before the end of the present year, and that, if it should fail to do so, it is the right and the interest of the United States to aid the Mexican Republicans. He advocates, in particular, the Mexican Loan bill, and expresses the hope that the aid extended to the Mexican Liberals will lead to a modification of the frontier of the United States of the Pacific.

THE REASON WHY THEY WOULD NOT CELEBRATE.—Some surprise has been expressed at the general indisposition of the leading Democrats to join in the Fourth of July celebration. The reasons for their course are clearly stated in the Nashville Banner, the Democratic organ of Tennessee. In its issue of the 3d of July it advises its readers not to participate in the celebration of the next day in the following strain:

"We are in no condition to be patriotic—in no mood to be festive; and we feel more like lowering the flag at half mast and dropping our heads in silence than stepping to the rattle of drums which seem to threaten, and crying our own defeat in hoarse huzzas. We refuse to do this. It is more than human nature ought to bear. We shall not celebrate the Fourth of July, for we cannot forget the present, and we dare not mock the past."

It is rather too much to expect that the party which tried to destroy the Fourth of July, 1776, could be in a patriotic or festive mood to celebrate that of 1866. But they will be on hand at the Philadelphia Convention of 1866.—Chicago Tribune.

THE RESULT.—Governor Hamilton, of Texas, openly proclaims that Johnson's policy has thoroughly revived the treasonable organizations in the South, and that they are more violent, more dangerous, and more cruel than at any period during the war; and he also says that in a few short weeks, when the recently elected State officers take their seats in Texas, and his provisional government is disbanded, most of the white and black Unionists will either be forced to fly for their lives, or will remain utterly subjugated and proscribed.
